ATTACKED BY RATS.

Attacked by several hundred fierce rats, which swarmed upon him while he was imprisoned in a narrow space from which he could not escape, Robert Crook, of Fairview, a hamlet near Wilkesbarre, Pa., fought them until his strength failed, and, then, unable to beat them off, fell senseless. He had been terribly mutilated when rescued and his sight had been destroyed. Crook, who is a wealthy farmer and prominent in his community, bad suffered considerable loss from rats, which efested his barns. They destroyed his farm produce, ate his grain, robbed his bennery, and even ruined barness in the barn. He resorted to various methods to exterminate the pests, but despite all his efforts their numbers seemed to multiply.

At length he hit upon the idea of constructing a monster rat trap in the loft of one of his barns. This trap was like a big box, some ten feet square, and about four feet high. Mr. Crook completed it a week ago, bated it, and then left it to do its work. He did not visit it again until Tuesday, when he found that its captives number of the second that its captives number of the second that its captives for the farmer. bered several hundred. The farmer called his rat-terrier, Spot, and thrust the dog into the trap in the belief that ne would make short work of the ene my. At the first blow the rats flew at him as they had at the dog. He beat them down by the dozen, but they swarmed upon every part of his body. They bit his arms and legs, tore the flesh from his ands and fastened upon his face.

The farmer flung himself at the door of the cage in a frantic attempt to escape. He could not open it. He had sprung the lock on entering the trap and made himself a prisoner.
